

EXHIBIT F

APRIL L. HOLLINGSWORTH (Bar No. 9391)
KATIE PANZER (Bar No. 16919)
HOLLINGSWORTH LAW OFFICE, LLC
1881 South 1100 East
Salt Lake City, Utah 84105
Telephone: 801-415-9909
april@aprilhollingsworthlaw.com
katie@aprilhollingsworthlaw.com
Attorneys for Plaintiff

IN THE THIRD JUDICIAL DISTRICT COURT OF SALT LAKE COUNTY, STATE OF UTAH

SARAH BARRAS, Plaintiff, vs. FAL FOODS USA INC, a corporation; FAL FOOD & BEVERAGES, LLC, a corporation; NOBLETREE COFFEE SALT LAKE CITY, LLC, a corporation; NOBLETREE COFFEE ROASTERS, LLC, a corporation; and FAL COFFEE, INC.; Defendants.	FOURTH AMENDED COMPLAINT (Jury Demand) Case No. 190910075 Judge Su Chon
--	--

COMES NOW, Plaintiff Sarah Barras, to complain and allege against Defendants FAL Foods USA Inc. (“FAL Foods”); FAL Food & Beverages, LLC (“FAL F&B”); Nobletree Coffee Salt Lake City, LLC (“Nobletree SLC”); Nobletree Coffee Roasters, LLC (“Nobletree Roasters”); and FAL Coffee, Inc. (“FAL Coffee”) as follows:

NATURE OF THE CASE

1. Ms. Barras is a former employee of FAL Foods, FAL F&B, Nobletree SLC, Nobletree Roasters, and/or FAL Coffee, and worked under the supervision of Randall George during her employment with those entities. During Ms. Barras’ employment with Defendants, George subjected her to continual sexual harassment and sexual advances in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, 42 U.S.C. § 2000e et seq.

PARTIES

2. Ms. Barras is an individual residing in Salt Lake County, Utah.
3. FAL Foods, FAL F&B, Nobletree SLC, Nobletree Roasters, and FAL Coffee are corporations doing business in Salt Lake County in the state of Utah and were Ms. Barras' employers during the relevant time periods.

JURISDICTION & VENUE

4. The claims at issue in this Complaint are related to the Defendants' business transactions within Salt Lake County, Utah.
 - a. At the time of the events at issue in this case, all Defendants operated out of an office located at 4709 W. Daybreak Parkway, Ste E, South Jordan, UT 84009. George was involved in the operations of all Defendants. Based on information and belief, they had 15 or more employees nationwide.
 - b. Nobletree SLC is a Delaware corporation, which conducted business in Utah during the relevant time frame, at the Daybreak Parkway address above. Based on information and belief, Nobletree SLC has 15 or more employees nationwide, and/or the company is so interrelated with the other Defendants that they are effectively one employer.
 - c. Nobletree Roasters is a Delaware corporation, that also conducted business during the relevant time frame in Utah, at the Daybreak Parkway address above. Based on information and belief, Nobletree Roasters has 15 or more employees nationwide, and/or the company is so interrelated with the other Defendants that they are effectively one employer.

- d. FAL F&B is also a Delaware corporation, with a Utah office located at the same address. It has 15 or more employees.
 - e. FAL Foods is a New York corporation, which conducts business in Utah, through its executive based at the same address as the other Defendants. It has 15 or more employees.
 - f. FAL Coffee is a Delaware corporation, which is the parent company of Nobletree and “the coffee segment of FAL Group,” and conducts business in Utah. It has 15 or more employees.
- 5. Defendants also caused injury within the state of Utah.
 - 6. This Court has jurisdiction over the parties and subject matter of this action pursuant to Utah Code Ann. § 78(B)-3-205.
 - 7. Venue in this action is proper in this Court pursuant to Utah Code § 78(B)-3-307.
- Ms. Barras filed a Complaint of Discrimination with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (“EEOC”), alleging discrimination based on gender. The EEOC issued a Right to Sue on September 30, 2019, attached as Exhibit 1. Ms. Barras has therefore met all administrative prerequisites for filing this Complaint.

GENERAL FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

- 8. Ms. Barras was hired to work for Defendants as an administrative assistant in accounting in early September 2017. She initially did work related to the Coco Joy product sold by Defendants.

9. Within two weeks of starting for Defendants, she was promoted to Director of Operations, and she began doing work for “the Coffee trading company and the coffee stores” owned and operated by Defendants as well.
10. George represented to Ms. Barras that he was the Director and CEO for Defendants, and as such, he was Defendants’ alter ego.
11. Exactly what entity George and Ms. Barras worked for was unclear. For instance, George’s email signature stated he was “Director & CEO FAL Group USA, Brazil,” although Ms. Barras has not been able to find that exact entity, and George often referenced direction he received from an entity he referred to as “KSA,” apparently referring to the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. George informed Ms. Barras that he would “see to it that you will always be a part of the coffee program,” which she understood generally to be the Nobletree coffee enterprises, but he never told her the precise name of that corporation.
12. Counsel for FAL F&B has informed Ms. Barras’ counsel that Nobletree Roasters is the entity related to the coffee and roasting business.
13. All the entities Ms. Barras did work for used the same administrative personnel, including human resources and travel agents. George was involved in some form with all the entities.
14. When Ms. Barras became Director of Operations, George became her immediate supervisor and she was required to work closely with him.
15. Ms. Barras was frequently required to travel with George to Defendants’ New York stores and offices, doing work for all of the entities.

16. For several months, Ms. Barras and George worked well together and Ms. Barras enjoyed her job.
17. In March of 2018, George's behavior towards Ms. Barras became unprofessional.
18. George had never had or used social media but he began stalking Ms. Barras' social media accounts and asking her personal questions about the posts she made.
19. Later in March, Ms. Barras and George were in Park City on business and went to lunch together. During lunch, George told Ms. Barras that he was in love with her.
20. George also told Ms. Barras that she could go far with the companies if she would "partner" with him, insinuating a quid pro quo arrangement.
21. Ms. Barras declined George's advances and informed him that she was happily married to her husband and did not reciprocate his feelings.
22. Despite Ms. Barras' rejection, George repeatedly attempted to hold her hand on the drive back down to Salt Lake City.
23. Around this same time, George began sending Ms. Barras frequent inappropriate and suggestive text messages. George would often text Ms. Barras that he missed her or was thinking of her.
24. On one occasion, George texted Ms. Barras and told her, "It's getting harder for me to hide my feelings for you from everyone we work with." The text went on to acknowledge that George knew that Ms. Barras did not reciprocate her feelings.
25. In another text, George told Ms. Barras, "I want to be as close as you want me and closer has always been better for me. Nothing makes me feel better than when we are together. I miss you as soon as we are apart and I think of you constantly all day ... Honestly for me we can't be too close."

26. George would also regularly request that Ms. Barras send him pictures of herself. Ms.

Barras ignored or declined these requests but George would frequently send her pictures of himself.

27. George's daughter, Beth Woodruff, was the IT specialist for Defendants. In March of 2018, Ms. Barras and Ms. Woodruff attended a conference together. At the conference, Ms. Woodruff verbally attacked Ms. Barras and told her she did not deserve her position with Defendants.

28. A few weeks after returning from the conference, Ms. Barras discovered that Ms.

Woodruff was monitoring her emails—every email that she sent or received appeared in Ms. Woodruff's inbox.

29. Ms. Woodruff was only monitoring the emails of Ms. Barras and Alex Kavanaugh, an employee of Defendants based in New York. Although the exact motive for this behavior is unknown, Ms. Barras believes that Ms. Woodruff was either jealous of the attention she received from George or she was monitoring her emails at the direction of George.

30. Ms. Barras and Mr. Kavanaugh were friendly and she believes her and Mr. Kavanaugh's emails may have been monitored because George was jealous of their relationship.

31. In June of 2018, Ms. Barras met George in New York to attend to business at the Defendants' offices there. George asked Ms. Barras to have dinner with him. It was typical for the two to have business dinners together, so Ms. Barras accepted the invitation.

32. At dinner, George requested that Ms. Barras order an alcoholic beverage. Ms. Barras declined but George continued to pressure her to order a drink.

33. Often after a work dinner, George and Ms. Barras would meet in their hotel lobby and debrief about their day.
34. However, this evening George invited Ms. Barras up to his room, under the guise of conducting their nightly debriefing. At first, George and Ms. Barras sat in the living area of his suite and discussed work.
35. George quickly steered the conversation to personal matters and again told Ms. Barras his feelings for her. Again, Ms. Barras rejected George's advances.
36. While George was telling Ms. Barras his romantic feelings for her, he began removing her shoes. Ms. Barras told George that this made her uncomfortable. George said that this was why he wanted her to have a drink at dinner, but if she was uncomfortable, she could sit on the bed on the other side of the room.
37. Assuming that George would stay seated on the couch, Ms. Barras sat on the bed. However, George did not remain on the couch. George laid on the bed next to Ms. Barras and began caressing her hair and kissing her forehead.
38. At first, Ms. Barras froze, not knowing how to handle George suddenly escalating unwanted sexual advances to physically touching her. After a few minutes, Ms. Barras got up and left George's room.
39. The next day, Ms. Barras and George got into an argument. Ms. Barras expressed her opinion that they were wasting their time and the company's money by traveling to New York so frequently, especially considering the lack of progress they seemed to be making.

40. Between the argument and George's unwanted advances the night before, Ms. Barras felt extremely uncomfortable with the situation. She called Defendants' travel agency to book her an early flight home.
41. However, Ms. Barras did not realize that George was required to authorize her travel. When George was informed Ms. Barras was attempting to leave New York early, he asked the travel agent to put him on the same flight home with her.
42. When Ms. Barras returned to Utah, she consulted her employee handbook to see who she should report sexual harassment to. The employee handbook, however, was silent on this point.
43. Not knowing who to turn to, Ms. Barras contacted Defendants' third-party HR company, Ampian Human Resources. The Ampian representative she spoke to told her that she should report sexual harassment to George—the very man who was harassing her.
44. Despite George's pervasive and persistent sexual harassment, Ms. Barras continued working for Defendants because she otherwise loved her job.
45. On August 27, 2018, George terminated Ms. Barras's employment via text message. George told her that Defendants no longer had the funding to support her position.
46. As such, she was terminated for her refusal to submit to her supervisor's demands that she engage in a relationship with him, and/or for attempting to complain about his behavior.
47. After her employment was terminated, Ms. Barras reached out to Susan Johnson, the former Director of Operations for Defendants. Ms. Johnson also worked under George's supervision and told Ms. Barras a very similar story of her experience working for him.

48. Ms. Johnson also experienced sexual harassment and unwanted advances at the hands of George. Ms. Johnson was only the Director of Operations for Defendants for a few short months but experienced consistent harassment over her time there.
49. On October 6, 2017, Ms. Johnson strongly rebuffed George's advances and shut him down. On October 9, 2017, the following Monday, George fired her.
50. After her termination, Ms. Johnson wrote a letter to Ampian Human Resources, which handles human resources issues for Defendants, informing them of the sexual harassment she experienced. Therefore, Defendants were aware of George's previous behavior yet did nothing to prevent Ms. Barras from having a similar experience, even after Ms. Barras attempted to complain.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Discrimination and Retaliation in Violation of Title VII, against all Defendants)

51. Ms. Barras incorporates herein the allegations of the foregoing paragraphs.
52. Under Title VII, Ms. Barras was entitled to a workplace free of sexual harassment.
53. As set forth above, Ms. Barras was subjected to sexual harassment by George, Defendants' alter ego.
54. George was aided in his ability to harass Ms. Barras by having the authority to control her employment, with no oversight.
55. George represented to Ms. Barras that she would "continue to go far" in her employment, until she made clear that she would not engage in a romantic or sexual relationship with him and attempted to complain about his behavior, at which point she was terminated.
56. Defendants are vicariously liable for George's harassment of Ms. Barras, which culminated in a tangible employment action, because of his supervisory position.

57. Ms. Barras' attempt to complain of George's sexual harassment to Ampian constitutes protected activity under Title VII.
58. Defendants are also liable for George's retaliation against her after she attempted to complain about the harassment.
59. Ms. Johnson had previously complained of sexual harassment by George to the same entity Ms. Barras attempted to complain to. Therefore, Defendants knew or should have known about George's sexually harassing behavior but took no steps to prevent it.
60. Ms. Barras is entitled to recover damages for all her pecuniary losses created by Defendants' discrimination against her, as well as emotional distress, pain and suffering, inconvenience, mental anguish, loss of enjoyment of life, and other non-pecuniary damages caused by Defendants' unlawful discrimination.
61. Ms. Barras is also entitled to her attorneys' fees and costs of litigation.
62. Ms. Barras is also entitled to punitive damages due to Defendants' reckless disregard of her rights.
63. Ms. Barras' damages are potentially over $300,000, and therefore, subject to Tier 3 discovery under Utah R. Civ. P. 26.

REQUEST FOR A JURY TRIAL

Plaintiff requests that this matter be tried before a jury.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff prays for the following relief:

1. For the payment of back wages and benefits;
2. For reinstatement or front pay;
3. For compensatory damages;

4. For consequential damages;
5. For punitive damages;
6. For appropriate injunctive relief;
7. For all costs of litigation and attorneys' fees;
8. Pre-judgment and post-judgment interest at the highest lawful rate; and
9. For such other further and additional relief the Court deems just and proper.

Dated this 20th day of May, 2020

HOLLINGSWORTH LAW OFFICE, LLC

/s/ April L. Hollingsworth

April L. Hollingsworth

Katie Panzer

Attorneys for Plaintiff